PRANKISH PARTY

YOUNG LADIES HOSTESSES AT WEIRD AFFAIR SATURDAY NIGHT

Misses Lois and Edith Schuyler, Millicent Alvord, Margaret Frazee and Hope Ireland were hostesses at one of the merriest and weirdest of the Hallowe'en parties of Saturday night.

Invitations bade the forty guests to a masquerade at the home of the Misses Schuyler, 330 Ivy street. Here to their surprise they saw no preparations for a party; they were blindfolded and whisked away in automobiles to the new Stanford real estate building on Brand boulevard which Mr. Stanford had generously turned over to the young hostesses for the evening.

Here the mystified masqueraders were led to the back entrance, still blindfolded, where tall, sheeted ghosts gave them "the chilly mitt"—a reception that can be appreciated only by one who has experienced it, blindfolded.

Spooky decorations, games in keeping with the season, ghostly music, and refreshments which long-established custom has ordained as belonging to this frolicsome night made the evening one long to be remembered by this jolly party of young people, which comprised, besides the five hostesses, Misses Betty Wilkinson, Jeannette Ream, Chester Heaton, Gertrude DuBois, Inez Harrison, Phyllis Baker, Marian Clark, Beulah Warren, Myra Johns, Louise Wimmer, Grace Judd, Linda Goertz, Hazel Wilson, Madeline Love, Marjorie Yarrick, and Messrs. Harry McClusky, Francis Dryer, Homer Warren, Bill Goertz, Charles DuBois, Francis Read, Ted Lessard, Paul Howland, Edgar Butlin, Jim Sherwood, Ernest Schuyler, Howard Egan, Gale Woods, Earl Hammond, Tom McNary, Max Nobin, Stanley Walker, Bob Howlett, Wilbur Johns, Jo Gannon and H. D. Walsh.

Very original was the method these bright little hostesses chose of serving the refreshments. Trays were brought in holding refreshments for two and decorated with an orange candle and a black one. Over these candles marshmallows were toasted. Cider, doughnuts and apples were other goodies the trays bore.

Election Returns

Both of the theatres of the city have arranged to receive and show election returns tonight. They will continue to show the bulletins as long as their patrons care to stay. Manager Howe of the Glendale Theatre has arranged to begin receiving the bulletins soon after 5 o'clock and will display them in front of the Theatre until 6:45, then inside.

Water and Light

New water and light connections have been made the past month as follows: Water, 110, bringing the total connections up to 4622; light, 98, making the total 5025. There are 6002 customers now being billed for water and light by the Public Service Department.

"THE WHITE FIELDS"

The Sunday morning's sermon at the Presbyterian church was founded upon the narrative in John 4 of Jesus' conversation at Jacob's well with the woman of Samaria, and then with His disciples, to whom He said: "Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest." There are four pictures in this story.

First, a man of loving but shadowed face. Look at him: a perfect man. You have never seen a perfect man: there have been only two—Adam, and the second Adam, Christ Jesus. Now He sits in weariness at the old well at noon-tide; not by a chance, but by purpose. With divine tenderness He asks for water of the woman who comes, a sinful woman of Samaria, and offers her the water of life. To His disciples returning with food He says, "My meat is to do the will of Him that sent me." The world outside has everything to attract, but the food the soul lives on is spiritual: "Drink of Me;" "Believe Me."

The second picture is the woman. She is coming as always to the well for water, an unhappy and sinful woman, a chattel. When she realizes who it is that offers her the water of

AVENUE OR BLVD.

GLENDALE AND LOS ANGELES CONSIDER NAMING OF SHORT LINE HIGHWAY

Gordon Withnall of the City Planning and Zoning Commission of Los Angeles and Mr. Drew of the City Engineer's office were in Glendale yesterday, talking over several matters with City Manager Watson. One was the naming of the highway extending in a direct line from Second street, Los Angeles, to the S. P. crossing, Glendale. It now goes under six names—Lake Shore Ave., Glendale Ave., Allessandro St., Ivanhoe Ave., Ivanhoe Road and Brand Blvd. Mr. Drew said his city would name the entire stretch of highway Glendale Ave. if the city of Glendale would provide a connection of the same name through to our own Glendale Ave.; or they would name it Glendale boulevard if this city preferred and would give the same name to that portion of Brand between the south city limits and San Fernando Road. This matter is for the City Trustees to decide.

Another matter discussed was building of a paved highway from the north end of Ivanhoe bridge, northerly along the edge of the bluff bordering the Los Angeles river to a connection with a proposed road under the S. P. tracks, at the depression a short distance north of Broadway, from the proposed Commercial street east to Griffith Park. This would relieve San Fernando Road from that point south of some of the heavy traffic that now passes over it.

This proposed new highway and that now being improved between Glendale and Los Angeles via Ivanhoe, will both be of inestimable benefit to Glendale.

Home From Wyoming

John Goetz and wife have returned from a visit of two and one-half months with relatives in Laramie, Wyoming, and Fort Collins, Colo. They had sold their place at 721 S. Brand before they went away, so will live with relatives until the new house they are building at 339 West Garfield avenue is completed, which will be about December 1st. Mr. Goetz said he liked Wyoming and Colorado but he wouldn't trade the privilege of living in Glendale for both of them. He said he visited a good many cities in the two states and made a trip to Omaha with his son-in-law to take a load of stock and everywhere people were talking of coming to California. Glendale seemed to be well known to many people he met.

WITCHES DANCE

NOT "ON THE BLASTED HEATH" BUT AT MISS SEARLE'S BEHEST

Witches danced on Hallowe'en night at the Searle home in East Cerritos avenue, and so did ghosts and hobgoblins and other weird creatures that always cross the river Styx on the night of Al Hallows to mingle once more with mortals.

But, at a signal from the hostess, Miss Helen Searle, behold, masks fell from these weird creatures and by her magic they were transformed into Mr. and Mrs. Cadman, Misses Helena Richardson, Mamie Ellentuch, Sophia Ellentuch, Mildred Johnson, Alice Johnson, Hazel Griswold, Lois Griswold, Ida Wilber, Norma Walker, Ernestine Olmstead, and Messrs. Harry Richardson, Ray Eaton, W. Sullivan, Alford Eshe, Harry Dillon, Rupert McDonald, Leslie Cox, Homer Cadman, Bill Robertson and Clyde Bobzin.

Merry games, ghost stories, and dancing were the entertainments of the evening, at the conclusion of which the hostess served dainty refreshments. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. M. Searle, and Mesdames Griswold and H. Cummings.

Elk Minstrels

Glendale Lodge No. 1289, B. P. O. Elks, had a rare treat last night after the lodge session was over. The minstrel company recruited from the membership of Pasadena 672 came over 16 strong, and put on an old-time minstrel show with all the trimmings, before an enthusiastic audience of 250 or more. After an olio of songs and jokes in which interlocutor and end men performed the part of veterans, a program of solos, duets, quartettes and whistling numbers was given, which delighted all hearers. The performance lasted nearly two hours.

ELECTION NEWS THROUGHOUT U. S.

RECORD VOTE ON PACIFIC COAST; HEAVIEST VOTE EVER CAST AT NEW YORK; WOMAN DIES AT POLLS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—The first hours of election day on the Pacific Coast brought steadily increasing outpourings of voters to fulfill early election predictions for a record vote.

Reports from a dozen far western cities told of lively voting. While few cases where long lines of voters formed around the polls could be unearthed, almost everywhere there was a steadily moving stream of voters—both men and women—passing in and out of the polls during the early morning hours.

Party leaders were making their final claim of victory. Democratic headquarters stood firm on the claim that Cox was sure to carry all western states with the exception of California, Oregon and Washington where Harding was conceded a "fighting chance."

Republican headquarters claimed all western states except Nevada and Arizona.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The heaviest vote ever cast in a national election was being polled today, according to all reports coming in to the United Press.

First returns were from New Ashford, Massachusetts and Topeka, Kansas.

New Ashford, first to report, gave Harding 28 and Cox 6.

For the first time in American history women had a chance to vote for president, and reports from the polls were that nearly as many women as men were in the early lineups.

Weather conditions throughout the United States were unsettled. In the east there was a threat of rain, in the middle west there was rain and some snow, on the Pacific Coast it was clear, and the south reports weather as generally fair with rain at some places.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—An effort to "lock out" the Democratic National Committee from its headquarters in the Grand Central Palace for alleged non-payment of rent was made today, according to a statement issued by the committee. The Democratic National Committee said rent had been paid up until November 1 but that the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Exchange had refused further rental when it was tendered today.

DAYTON, O., Nov. 2.—Upon his arrival home here early today Governor Cox was given a telegram from Wm. G. McAdoo, who has been campaigning in the west, expressing confidence in the outcome of the election today and declaring "the west is on fire for the League of Nations."

NEW ASHFORD, Mass., Nov. 2.—The first election returns announced in the United States today were given out here at 8 o'clock this morning when the entire registration of this district had finished voting. Harding received 28 votes, Cox 6. In 1916 Wilson received 7, Hughes 16.

MARION, O., Nov. 2.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding cast her first vote in a presidential election today and was followed almost immediately by Senator Harding, who voted shortly after 10 o'clock.

The senator motored to Columbus to play golf after voting.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—With the issue of "rebuking Federal government interference" as an added argument favoring Amendment No. 1, California voters showed as much interest in the proposed anti-Japanese land holding law as in the outcome of the presidential election today.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2.—Republican leaders today declared the southern citrus belt vote will be strong for Senator Harding and a protecting tariff.

At the same time Democratic leaders declared the League issue would overbalance the strong Republican tariff sentiment.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Rains, winds and snows were prevalent throughout the middle western states today and were expected to keep many feminine voters at home. The inclement weather was expected to interfere with the farmer vote to a certain extent.

TOPEKA, Kansas, Nov. 2.—Scattering returns from four precincts in this city today gave Harding 109 votes, Cox 96 and Debs 1.

The first forty votes in the fourth precinct today gave Cox 37, Harding 3. Railroad employees predominated in the fourth precinct.

CHINO, Cal., Nov. 2.—Mrs. Nora M. Beckley, 26, died from heart failure at the polling place in the Chino school shortly after she helped her husband, Wm. Beckley, open the election booth this morning.

TWO SUSPECTED BURGLARS ARE CAPTURED

SHOTS FROM POLICE REVOLVERS STOP FLEEING PAIR; TONNEAU FILLED WITH STOLEN GOODS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2.—Following an automobile chase of more than a mile today, two suspected burglars were captured by police. Numerous shots were fired by pursuing officers before the two men, Louis Terez and Fausto Martinez, were stopped. According to the officers the tonneau of the captured machine was loaded with goods stolen from a local store.

MORE BUILDING?

WILL IT INCREASE NOW THAT ELECTION IS OVER AND WINTER COMES?

Building reports from Los Angeles and surrounding cities showed a general slackening up during October, but it is not believed this will be permanent, as there is still a shortage of many thousands of homes, and there is no let-up to the stream of tourists arriving, the majority of whom expect to stay. And this influx will increase rather than diminish, now that the election is over and winter approaches. Men intimately acquainted with the lumber situation declare there can be no general decline in building materials, especially lumber, for years to come. If people intending to erect homes once become thoroughly convinced that this is true it is believed that there would be such an era of home building as has never been dreamed of. For months Glendale has been short literally hundreds of homes and this shortage is growing instead of decreasing, despite the hundreds built in the past few months. One thing is certain from the reports of all who come back from visits to the East and North, and that is that people are coming to the Southland this year as never before and we are more poorly equipped to welcome and house them than ever before.

Will Make Home Here

C. C. Sawyer, wife and boy, who came here a few days ago from Norfolk, Va., have leased Perry Dodge's place at 226 West Elk avenue, furnished, and will occupy it for a few months, until they can buy a home of their own, as they have decided they want to live in Glendale permanently. Mr. Sawyer is in the real estate business. The Dodge family have moved into apartments at 719 East Wilson avenue.

Gives Party for Friends

Vassar Peckham gave a Hallowe'en party Saturday evening to about 20 of his young friends at the home of his parents, C. L. Peckham and wife, 615 North Central avenue. The house was decorated in Hallowe'en colors and emblems and refreshments of the same character were served. Games and dancing were enjoyed.

HALLOWE'EN DANCE

CAPTAIN AND MRS. D. RIPLEY JACKSON GIVE ANNUAL FUNCTION

Captain and Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson, of 1800 South Brand boulevard, gave their usual Hallowe'en dance on Saturday evening, in honor of their young son, Kenneth, the guests being his schoolmates of Glendale Union High School.

Black-eyed Susans were the blossoms chosen to carry out the regulation Hallowe'en color scheme, yellow and black, and other decorations of the same hue were used effectively—grinning yellow pumpkins and cats as black as darkest midnight doing their best to impart a weird atmosphere to the occasion. A dim, sheeted ghost, its face lighted by electricity, stood awesomely in a corner of the house which grew suddenly dark as each guest stepped into the house.

Besides dancing, games forecasting the future and songs loved by happy young folk were the pastimes of the evening, and the refreshments, without which no party is worthy of its name, were of the time-honored Hallowe'en variety. Punch was served throughout the evening in the breakfast room. The favors were also in harmony with the merry occasion.

Out-of-town guests were Colonel and Mrs. Frazer of Hollywood, and Mrs. Coddington and Miss Helen Hitchcock of Los Angeles. Others who shared the pleasure of the evening were Mrs. Wm. Sullivan, Misses June Delight, Georgia Donnecker, Ruth Stokes, Eileen Sullivan, Dorothy Hunt, Ruth Wilson, Florence Babcock, Billy Cole, Esther Ralston, Minola Budd, Jessie Dutton, Dorothy Peart, Mildred Meeker, Louise Hollenbeck, Messrs. Joe Rhodes, Robert Sullivan, Anthony H. Alexander, Richard Alexander, Dean Culbertson, Brigham Bennett, Clarence Ralston, Bob Burson, Warren Meeker, Jimmy Hill, Kenneth Wilde, Chisel Dennison, William Farner, Francis Sullivan, Francis Gordon, Will Sullivan, Howard Ralston, Al Sullivan, Kenneth Jackson.

HALLOWE'EN DINNER

LARGE PARTY ENTERTAINED AT CHANDLER HOME IN LOS RITOS

One of the most delightful of the many Hallowe'en parties with which Glendale homes made merry was the dinner Saturday evening with which Miss Sarah Chandler and Mary Brown entertained a group of friends at the Chandler home in Los Ritos.

Grinning jcak-o'-lanterns, black cats, wise old owls and wicked-looking witches carried out artistically the black and yellow Hallowe'en motif on the dining table over which the young hostesses presided, and where places were marked for Misses Lucille Allen, Catherine Guthrie, Cecil Chase, Helene Buchanan, Carmen De Lara, Miriam Hill of Hollywood, Frances Betz, Louis Laudain, Amy Bainbridge, Dorothy Houston, Gladys Sharpe, Dorothy Potter, Emma Laura Cooper, Mary Cook, Regina Strasser, Mary Longley, Lina Borthick, Louise Chandler of Los Angeles, Barbara Chandler and Meta Chandler.

After dinner, as they sat around the fireplace listening to a ghost story, lo and behold, a really, truly ghost, evoked from out the vasty deep, made its appearance.

Fortune telling and other merry Hallowe'en games were other features of the happy evening.

Hallowe'en Dance

A gay crowd gathered last Saturday evening at the K. of P. hall, Park Ave. and Brand Boulevard, to celebrate Hallowe'en. This was the weekly dance given by Sunny's orchestra, but special features had been provided by the management. A riot of fun was enjoyed with serpentine, confetti and ticklers, and the crowd danced to the best music ever according to those who enjoyed the fun. Sunny's orchestra made a big hit and many compliments were heard for the manager, Cal Wainer. Mr. Wainer announces his Saturday dances in Friday's issue of the Evening News each week.

Entertain Service Boys

H. G. McBain and wife were guests Sunday afternoon at a dinner party given by Miss Bertha Slaughter, 4682 Halldale avenue, Los Angeles, for some of the overseas boys, Bob Somerville, who is now at his home in Los Angeles, and Charles Adams, Max Kyle, Walter Harris and Thomas Bertibro of the Crocker Street Hospital. These boys have acquaintances among those at Thornycroft and want them to know that they are not the only ones who are being entertained in the homes of citizens.

Farewell Picnic

A farewell party was given Sunday at Brookside Park for Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Higgins, who recently sold their property at 1101 East Wilson avenue, and will soon go to San Francisco to spend the winter. Refreshments in abundance were taken along and a picnic dinner enjoyed in the park. Those present besides Mr. and Mrs. Higgins were Mr. and Mrs. H. Woods and two children of Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. Ed Wanamaker, son Edgar and daughter Elizabeth of Ontario; Mrs. M. Anderson and sons Carl and Raymond, 107 South Isabel.

KAIGHAN'S CANDIES

QUALITY CHOCOLATES, HANDMADE, ARE LOCAL FACTORY'S PRIDE

Some artists work in plaster, some in marble, but the medium chosen by the artists in the Kaighan candy factory over on Maryland avenue is chocolate.

It is not extravagant to claim that the Kaighan chocolates are works of art and their makers artists. Every chocolate must be perfect, to satisfy Mr. Kaighan; it must be molded at just the right temperature, it must be exactly correct as to consistency, it must be formed so skillfully that the law of gravity will not get busy and spoil its shape; for know ye that even as the overeating of chocolates by any lady tends to run to waist (which is indeed a tragedy), so the over-development of a chocolate tends to spoil its shape, too; and then it is rejected of men—or at least, one man, Mr. Kaighan.

And the makers of these chocolates—all the chocolates in the Kaighan candy factory are handmade—they are artists. They must sense with their finger tips whether their material is at the proper tem-

Farm Profits

The United States department of agriculture has made a study of three farm areas—one in Ohio, another in Indiana and the third in Wisconsin—and it is developed that farmers are making an average of five per cent on their investments in land and equipment.

This investigation has also disclosed that the average profit of these farmers in a year does not exceed $500, which is slightly less than $10 a week. Almost any good mechanic will earn that much in a single day, and common labor will earn the sum in two days.

Persons living in the cities, paying high prices for all the products of the farm, sometimes get the idea that farmers must be getting enormously rich, but they do not take into consideration that the average farmer—the one who does not market his produce direct to the consumer—gets in most cases less than half and in some cases only one-fourth of the retail prices charged.

Another thing that cuts the farmer's income is the high cost of practically everything that enters into the business of farming. Even though the farmer gets what is considered a good price for wheat and other grains, the cost of production almost eliminates any profit.

The continued drift of farmers to the cities is partly explained by the fact that so little is left to the raisers of food products after the cost has been deducted. The farmer and his family get the bulk of their living, of course, but the net returns on the investments for owning and operating a farm are less than a savings bank will pay and considerably less than could be secured from good industrial stocks.

It will not do to judge farming by the fine properties which have been developed in many western states—farms which can be operated by machinery on a large scale, and with a minimum of expense. The great numbers of farmers are working under unfavorable conditions, which impose the largest costs with the least returns for money invested.

Hospital Board Meets

The executive board of the Glendale Research Hospital held its regular meeting at its temporary office, 131 South Brand boulevard, last evening.

Every bill presented for materials was passed and paid. Work on the building is progressing rapidly; the hollow tile is now all in, and it is expected that the hospital will be ready for use soon after the first of the year.

The sale of the stock is also progressing satisfactorily. Already $85,000 worth has been sold. More than 175 Glendale families are among the stockholders. Also significant of the company's claim that the hospital is a community affair is the fact that every contractor is taking pay for at least part of his contract in stock.

The next meeting will be held on November 15th, at the same place.

NATIONAL DEBT

SOME SUGGESTIONS AS TO HOW HUGE SUM OF MONEY MAY BE PAID

It is claimed by our best source of information that the world's war has cost us $24,000,000,000. The United States is estimated to be worth $240,000,000,000. That being the case, we owe one dollar for each ten we are worth, or 10 per cent of our entire wealth. Now what are we going to do about it? Every honest citizen will say: "Pay it. We want to be honest and square with individuals and the nations of the world." That is all right. But the next question is: "Who will pay it?" The editor of a very popular newspaper published in Los Angeles says: "Viewing this matter from every angle, and with all the arithmetic that I have at my command, I am unable to figure it out any other way than that the worker and consumer must pay the debt." Well, from his standpoint he is correct—but there are two other ways of paying a debt, according to my arithmetic. One is that when a man or company that is in the mercantile business gets swamped with debt, he or they can take advantage of the bankrupt law, which is the same as repudiation. The other way is, tax himself and pay the debt. Oh! I see now what you are driving at. You believe in a tariff for revenue only and a direct pro rata tax on every individual, from the owner of a dollar up to the multi-millionaire. Yes, sir. That is just what I mean. The objection to this way of paying debt is, that this would ruin the business of the country, stop the wheels or transportation. Commerce would go to the bow wows, and, another thing, the wealth of the rich corporations and trusts is not cash by any means, and to tax them the ratio of what they ought to pay would be ruinous to the business of the country. How about the farmer? His wealth is not all cash by any means. He is assessed a big tax, if necessary, and he finds a way to pay. If he don't the property he owns is put up and sold at sheriff's sale. Now let us all put a shoulder to the wheel, like Belgium did, and, all together, liquidate the debt.

THE AMERICAN GIRL FOREVER

Europe has long viewed with envious eye and covetous soul America's resources. The United States has been the land favored of the gods, blessed with everything that old countries lacked—money, food, natural resources. Now it is suddenly discovered that your Uncle Sam has surplus bachelors and Europe wants our bachelors.

In France alone, as has been prominently pointed out several times since the war, there are four women to every three men. One woman in every four, it seems, is condemned to life as a spinster, and France to a dearth of children in the next generation.

France points to her superfluous women with a pathetic pride. She invites American bachelors to come over and marry them. For France, always gallant, is too chivalrous publicly to advocate the exportation of her women, even her superfluous women, as is now the practice in other countries where the same condition prevails. She would have the man come to the woman in this extremity, just as he would in normal times and circumstances. So France is telling us what fine wives the French women make, what models they are as housekeepers.

True enough, but whom among our superfluous men shall America export to France, along with our money, our grain and our manufactured articles? And who shall do the picking, and the packing? And how long would they stay exported, even in beautiful France? Which leads to the question: Shall the superfluous bachelors have anything to say about the matter, and if they do, would they submit to exportation at all?

All of which, of course, as was quite clear from the beginning, is purposely turning our heads away from the perfectly obvious stumbling block in the path of the whole project—the American woman. Our men like her too well to desert her.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

PASTOR CLIFFORD A. COLE OCCUPIES PULPIT AFTER TWO WEEKS' ABSENCE

Rev. C. A. Cole was welcomed back to his pulpit in Central Christian church Sunday after an absence of two weeks during which he attended the great convention at St. Louis. In the morning service he told of the work of this convention. He was a member of the Committee on Recommendations before which every matter came for decision as to whether or no it would come before the convention. While there were some sharp differences between the great agencies of the Brotherhood at the commencement of the sessions, all these were adjusted before the close and everything was harmonious. He told of the great increase in benevolent work done by the church, all of the missionary societies and other agencies showing largely increased receipts.

In the evening Rev. Cole's subject was "How to Vote" or "Christian Citizenship." He claimed that while a minister of the gospel should not take an active part in partisan politics he should concern himself with measures for the public good and advise and counsel on such matters. He made no recommendations as to which party ticket to vote but went over all the 21 amendments and propositions on the ballot, stating his convictions on those that concerned moral uplift, such as the Harris Enforcement Bill. Rev. Cole counseled his hearers to study all questions well and then go to the polls and vote. A failure to vote your convictions is half a vote against them.

Pleasant Kensington

The XVI club were the guests on Saturday afternoon of Miss Fredonia Borthwick at a Kensington at her home in the Burlington Apartments, Los Angeles.

Two absent members will reap some of the pleasure of the meeting; for Miss Alice McCoy, who is teaching in Maricopa this year, will receive a circular letter written her by club members who were present at the meeting and Miss Birdie Shropshire, of Cincinnati, Ohio, will be surprised to receive on her birthday a card from each old friend in the XVI club.

Needlework and conversation occupied the rest of the afternoon, at the close of which the hostess served a delicious two-course luncheon.

THE ANT AND THE GRASSHOPPER

A day in the fields or woods in the nipping air of the late fall cannot but put new heart into the worker whose tasks keep him in-doors six days a week. Perhaps, on a ramble across the stubble, you have sometimes come upon the withered remains of a grasshopper or an anthill overturned by the mowers. And if you have, the chances are you've taken a deep draught at your pipe, and philosophized after the fashion of LaFontaine, who told the fable of the Grasshopper and the Ant.

"You have sung all summer," exclaims the Ant in high derision. "Very well, now you may dance."

Now to spoil your day, or your philosophy, comes Fabre, the French naturalist, to tell a different story. It is the grasshopper who is industrious, Fabre tells us, and the ant who is a parasite. When a grasshopper sticks his miniature suction pump into a cache of honey, the ants swarm about by the thousand to rob him. The grasshopper does not mind. He takes his fill and then, flying off, expectorates on all his little enemies just as, if you hold him, he will spit "tobacco juice" on your finger.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard," may have to be revised when the naturalists get through to "go to the grasshopper."

NEW FACTORS IN TRANSPORTATION

To Alaska and return by airplane has been demonstrated possible by four American army fliers. Covering 9000 miles in 110 hours, these intrepid bird-men have set a new record for aviation in this country. Less spectacular but perhaps more indicative of the future of aviation, is the report of the splendid record made by the regular airplane service between London and Paris, in which but 17 out of 166 flights scheduled were prevented or interrupted. And as indicating the comparative trustworthiness of the machines, it is recorded that but three flights were hindered by mechanical defects. The other 14 interruptions were due to weather conditions.

An authority on aeronautics in America recently made the statement that the development of commercial aviation now awaited only suitable landing places in the commercial centers. It is a little hard to get the work-a-day world to notice the approach of this comparative revolution in the methods of rapid transit. But the successes achieved must be taken as conclusive proof that the airplane in passenger and express transportation has demonstrated that it is worthy of recognition. Practical aviation has come to stay, and progressive communities must soon make provision for its reception and accommodation.

Personals

Ben F. Bolen of 369 Myrtle is away on a business trip to Arizona.

Mrs. J. M. Boynton has rented one side of David Carney's new double bungalow at 212 South Louise.

Mrs. E. Baruch has moved from 431 West Broadway to 406 South Glendale avenue; L. Z. Taylor from 711 East Colorado, rear, to 1140 E. Elk avenue; J. V. Carroll from 1101 North Louise to Terminal Island.

T. J. Fambrough has sold his residence property at 231 West Elk avenue to N. L. Daich and has moved into a part of Mr. Rumble's house at 111 North Central, to stay until his new house is completed.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bevis, recent arrivals from New York City, being impressed with the beauty and desirability of Glendale as a place of residence, has purchased the property at 470 Riverdale Drive, and expect to move in about the tenth of the month.

New buildings nearly ready for occupancy, with light meters ordered installed, are those of Mrs. S. Gray, 708 North Isabel; Geo. S. Barton, 801 East Elk Ave.; E. A. Hilton, 605 West Lexington Drive; R. O. Light, 421 West Maple; Mrs. V. B. Wright, 616 North Orange; W. F. Tower, 210 South Central Ave.

Mrs. Hannah Hesse, who has been visiting relatives in Glendale and vicinity for several months, left yesterday for Grand Junction, Colo., where she will spend a few weeks with a daughter, then go on to St. Louis and Philadelphia, where she has daughters living. She hopes to return to Glendale next spring.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kraas are newcomers to Glendale, having arrived last week by auto from Kansas City, Mo. They are visiting relatives here while deciding upon a permanent location and probably will become Glendalians as they have found no other California city they like as well as this. Mrs. Kraas is a niece of Mrs. A. N. Allis of 471 Hawthorne.

R. C. Chambers, Jr., of Chambers & Felts, Hudson and Essex dealers, has sold the beautiful new home he bought of Geo. Prikett at 468 Hawthorne to Edward Holliday, who recently sold a large auto business in Chicago and came West to locate. He and his wife will move into the new residence in a few days, as soon as Mr. and Mrs. Chambers can find a place to live. They expect to occupy an apartment for a time, until they can build in the north part of the city.

Architect Alfred F. Priest of North Central avenue is a very busy man these days. He is preparing plans for a 1-story brick garage 75x130 feet at Oxnard; a 3-story frame hotel building 64x140, with 55 guest rooms and 10 bath rooms, at Algoma, Oregon; enlarging the Raymond Theatre at Ocean Park; a 1-story and basement brick building 50x72 for the Dr. Harrower laboratories, Glendale; and an 8-room frame and plaster residence for S. Berman of this city.

A. F. Webster, wife and daughter, Lillian, leave today for Santa Barbara to make their home for a time. Mr. Webster's work as traveling salesman for a wholesale dry goods house of Los Angeles necessitates that he live north. Mrs. Webster's sisters, Mrs. Charlotte Cady and Miss Mattie E. Cox, will accompany them. Their Santa Barbara address will be 2001 Alameda Padre Serra. Mr. Webster has leased his home at 205 East Acacia, furnished, to Mr. Sanders, traveling salesman for a tractor company.

Fifteen building permits were issued the first day of November for a total of $16,140. Eight of them were for residences, some of them quite small. The rest were for garages and additions. Residences for which permits were issued are as follows: J. S. Thompson, 6 rooms and garage, 400 West Broadway, $5000; F. W. Paap and E. H. Peterson, 6 rooms, 1412 East California Ave., $3000; Willis and Bertha L. Price, 4 rooms, 131 South Isabel, $2800; Frank P. Stone, 4 rooms, 419 West Broadway, $1500; L. E. Miles, 2 rooms and garage, Colina Drive, $1,000; John H. Weedo, 2 rooms, 1308 East Wilson Ave., $500; E. Woodyard, 4 rooms, 1233 Orange Grove Ave.; Victor E. Whittaker, 2 rooms, 525 West Elk Ave., $250.

Students Parade

The pupils of the Intermediate school turned out to a man (and to a woman, too), yesterday afternoon to give reason to all beholders for the faith that is in them in the matter of the civic center bonds.

Manfully they marched the main streets of the city, in orderly fashion, bearing banners and slogans setting forth their own childish needs and yearnings.

"Let Us Swim in Glendale," pleaded one banner; "It's a Long Way to Brookside," proclaimed another, wistfully. "Keep Glendale Clean," and "Vote Civic Center Bonds," admonished others.

perature and of the proper consistency, and they must know just how to mold it into a chocolate that will not settle down into an ugly shape which will bring down upon it the anathema of stern censor Kaighan.

The Kaighan factory is one of Glendale's newest industries. It is in the new building built by Dr. Goodno. It faces Maryland avenue, and occupies a floor space 25 feet by 70 feet. In front of this factory space is the office, not yet completed; the factory has been in operation but a few days—only since October 21st. The office when completed (the furniture has been ordered and is on its way), will be a fine one, with furnishings and accessories in harmony with the ivory and yellow finish of the interior.

Downstairs in the basement are the stock room, the store room and the room where the girls work, the artists whose highly-sensitized fingertips know when their material is just right, and how to grapple with the law of gravity so that each sofe mass may form a perfect chocolate, good to look at and good to taste. When each chocolate is finished, these artists deftly mark them with hieroglyphics mysterious to you and me, but intelligible to the packer as informing him what flavor the candy is, orange, strawberry, etc.

All the candy is dated as it is packed, so that it is guaranteed fresh.

Quality is the keynote of the Kaighan products. Nothing but fresh fruit is used as a flavoring, nothing artificial is used in the Kaighan candies, and everything about the place is strictly sanitary.

Mr. Kaighan has had many years of experience in the making of fine candies. He has the "know how" and he has also the highest standard for his work and for his product. While he specializes in chocolates, hard candies will be made, also.

The Kaighan concern is a wholesale establishment, and already a demand for its goods has been created. Most of the drug stores here and in nearby cities already carry the Kaighan chocolates, and their patrons, like Oliver Twist, are calling for "more."

The factory has already many Christmas orders and has on hand many beautiful boxes in which to pack the dainty confections. Five-pound boxes may be obtained direct from the factory at wholesale prices, and the smaller boxes may be had at the retail stores.

Hallowe'en Party

Elegant in all its appointments and delightful in every detail was the Hallowe'en card and dancing party with which Mr. and Mrs. Elliot B. Wyman entertained the Foothill Club and their husbands on All Hallows Eve.

The pleasant evening was arranged as a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Elliot, who are leaving North Glendale soon for their new home in Pasadena.

Clusters of shaggy chrysanthemums lent their glorious golden beauty to the spacious rooms of the beautiful Wyman home, and Hallowe'en decorations emphasized the eerie nature of the day. The refreshments and the decorations of the dining table were also typical of the season.

Miss Frances Wyman, daughter of the hosts, gave several much appreciated piano selections.

The diversion of the early evening hours was cards, at which Mrs. C. H. Crawford was the winner of the prize. The guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot, were also awarded prizes—a bronze bookmark and a paper cutter.

Dancing was enjoyed until the wee sma' hours, and those who enjoyed Mr. and Mrs. Wyman's charming hospitality were Messrs. and Mesdames W. C. Cutler, G. K. Barnes, Walter J. Elliott, Julius Kranz, Clarence H. Crawford, Perce H. Curtis, Charles H. Beggs, Alfred F. Priest, J. I. Wernette, E. E. Dana, Mesdames Mary J. Oliver and H. M. Hewitt, and Miss Mary Salisbury.

Mrs. Elliott was one of the founders of the Foothill Club, and a lady who will be much missed by a large circle of friends to whom she has endeared herself by her charming personality.

Entertains Friends

A REVERY

"OLD FRIENDS TO LOVE, OLD BOOKS TO READ," AN APT QUOTATION

A famous man of letters once said, "Whenever a new book comes out, I read an old one;" and while we of the twentieth century are very fond of "the latest," the "up-to-date," the "down-to-the-minute" and "the last word" in books as in everything else, still, even we have certain books, old, and out of fashion, to which we go back some times with the same feelings of joy that we had when we read them the first time.

Perhaps you're dusting the books—they get dusty, now that we spend all our spare time in automobiles—and "David Copperfield" happens to open to a page with a picture of Mr. Micawber "waiting for something to turn up;" you begin to read, and the dusting is forgotten. Once more you live with David through the sad experiences of his childhood; once more you share his life at school and his later struggles for a livelihood. Once more with him you hate Mr. Murdstone and his dreadful sister; once more with him you are fascinated by his young friend Steerforth, the cause of the downfall of dear Little Em'ly; once more you laugh at Miss Betsy Trotwood, David's aunt, forever chasing the donkeys off the green, and David's faithful nurse, Peggotty, to whom he bore the message that "Barkis is willin'." Then there's Dan'l Peggotty, Ham Peggotty and David's mother—and that horrible Uriah Heep whose very name has become the synonym for hypocrisy, and dear little Dora, David's child-wife, and the noble character of Agnes and that queer Rosa Dartle and—well, you let the dusting go, and drop into the nearest rocker to renew your acquaintance with them all. We let them get dusty, just as we neglect other old friends for new ones sometimes, while all the time we love the old ones best.

Dickens himself says in his preface to this immortal story that he likes it best of all his books. One of his biographers tells us that the author's favorite characters were the Peggotty family, Barkis, who married David's nurse, the doleful Mrs. Gummidge and Little Em'ly.

"It has been their fate," says this biographer, "as with all the leading figures of his invention, to pass their names into the language and become types; and he has nowhere given happier embodiment to that purity of homely goodness, which, by the kindly and all-reconciling influence of humor, may exalt into comeliness and even grandeur the clumsiest forms of humanity."

Thimble Club Meeting

Mrs. P. V. Potter, of 446 West Broadway, was hostess to the Pioneer Thimble Club at the first meeting of the club one afternoon during the past week.

Masses of great shaggy chrysanthemums and decorations in the Hallowe'en motif lent a festive air to the Potter home, and needlework, music and pleasant conversation were the diversions of the afternoon. Refreshments of doughnuts and cider further carried out the Hallowe'en idea.

This club of congenial friends is just entering upon its seventh year. Members who enjoyed Mrs. Potter's hospitality were Mesdames R. E. Frey, H. M. Vandyke, C. R. Chappell, H. Whitaker, R. D. Vinton and J. Andree, the two new members Mrs. Mary Griggs, 428 Pioneer Drive, and H. L. Bullinger, Jr., 205 North Central avenue, and the guest of the day, Miss Helen Musgrave of Los Angeles.

The club will be entertained by Mrs. Chappell, of Vine street, at the next meeting, November 10th.

Voting Rather Light

The vote was not very heavy in Glendale up to noon today. At the precinct 6 polls, 144 general ballots out of a registration of 380 had been cast and 118 on the bonds. In No. 7 there were 74 cast out of 282 registration. In No. 3 the showing is far better, 174 votes out of a possible 350.

Teacher Entertains

Some boys think "teacher" has no heart, but there's one class of boys in the First Presbyterian church that knows its Sunday School teacher has one, anyway.

They are the boys of Mrs. Henry Lawrence's class, and if the jolly party with which she entertained sixteen of them last night at James Fise's home, 517 North Jackson St., was proof positive that she's one grown-up who still has the child-heart.

James' mother knows what a fellow likes, too, as was shown by the jolly, funny, Hallowe'en decorations she had fixed up all over the house—and grinning jack-o'-lanterns on the porch, 'n everything.

The invitations said "from seven to nine-thirty," and every minute of those precious hours was filled chock full of games, riddles, ghost stories and laughs. By no means the least enjoyable thing about the party, of course, were the refreshments, which included all the things a fellow could expect at a Hallowe'en party, and plenty of each one—which is another thing a fellow appreciates when he's about twelve, as most of these boys are.

Agriculture will come into its own again when the pocketbooks of farmers now living in the towns are pinched hard enough.

The woman who would like to reduce is disposed to try almost everything else before deciding to eat less and take more exercise.

Red Triangle Cabin

The Y. M. C. A. group, from the Intermediate school, together with three groups from the Eagle Rock Intermediate school, accompanied by W. G. Boyd, group leader, and Rex C. Kelley, District Secretary, went up to the Red Triangle cabin in the San Gabriel Canyon, Friday evening, and stayed over till Saturday afternoon. They toasted marshmallows and had other refreshments Friday evening and Hallowe'en games of various kinds. They tried camping out for the night but, a rain coming up, they were all well soaked, so spent the rest of the time in the cabin, drying out.

Has Best Population

It has been customary to estimate the number of inhabitants of the 48 states which make up this union at 110,000,000. The fact that the United States census this year found 4,300,000 fewer of us may occasion regret in the breasts of some patriots.

But this feeling is not shared by the New York Herald, which points out that there are 105,885,108 of us—enough men and women for the time being to develop the country's natural resources, enough children to assure perpetuation of our mixed and interesting race, enough individuals to defend us against enemies from abroad and against our comparatively infrequent lunatics and fools at home.

"THE WHITE FIELDS"

life she flies back to summon her townspeople in haste. She stands as a representative of heart-broken womanhood.

The third picture is the harvest. You have ridden through the wonderful, vast grain-fields; but look at a world ready to harvest! These are days when our eyes need to be open to all the world. Great changes are coming to pass in Latin America; it is looking toward the advancing world; the papacy is failing, and the true must take its place. Today the whole Moslem world is opening as never before to the gospel. The most marvelous transformation of our time is going on in the Turkish domain; its people are open and accessible; and a railroad now runs into the heart of Arabia. India is open and white to harvest; doors a few years ago closed are so no longer. China more and more rapidly is whitening for harvest. Dr. Sun Yat Sen said to his people: "Listen to the missionaries; believe their gospel; Christianity is what China needs." China's harvest cannot wait.

The third picture is the reaper. Old-time reapers, with haste and diligence, gathered grain with the sickle; now the work is done with speed by powerful tractors. And thus the great work requires great means of accomplishment. The old missionary machinery no longer suffices, the day of small things is past.

Behold the fields at our own door. You have to have a vision of the white field in your own house and your own town. Heed a little word in the text: "Pray!" It is your job. How much have you ever done? Pray that He will thrust forth workers.

Now I come to Harvest Home. Some of you God has been prospering these times. "He that reapeth receiveth wages." Here are wages and dividends; what more do you want? Wages here, an eternal crown by and by. How graciously! Why not you to earn this? But always some say, "There are yet four months till the harvest," who plan to do something great for God next week or next year. Now is the time. The voice of the Lord of the harvest cries, "Who will go?" "Here am I, send me."

"Thou hast no tongue, O Christ, as once of old,
To tell the story of Thy love divine;
The story still as strange, as sweet, as true;
But there's no tongue to tell it out but mine.

"Thou has no hands, O Christ, as once of old,
To feed the multitudes with bread divine;
Thou hast the living bread, enough for all,
But there's no hand to give it out but mine.

"Thou hast no feet, O Christ, as once of old,
To go where Thy lost sheep in sin and sorrow pine;
Thy love is still as strong, as true, as kind,
But now Thou hast no feet to go but mine.

"And shall I use these ransomed powers of mine
For things that only minister to me?
Oh, take my tongue, my hands, my feet, my all,
And let them live, and give, and go for Thee."

Plea for Checkers

The games of Lotto, Old Maid and Parchesi may give way to Pollyanna, Spoof and Tinker Pins, but the devotees of the checker board we have always with us. These gentle, if simple, folk are even now dusting off the board and rounding up the black and the red for many and many a gory and hilarious contest through the winter.

There is something inevitable about checkers. It does not require the same formidable array of brains as does chess; it is a point more mentally exacting than dominoes. But those implacable squares, that alluring king-row, the double corners and the dangerous doldrums along the sides—it takes a player of real courage to navigate them handsomely.

A lot of folks are willing to sow wild oats all right, but they want others to look after the harvest.

EYES ON CALIFORNIA

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—California was a center of nationwide interest when voters began going to the polls throughout the state today to cast their votes on the presidential election.

Remembering what happened four years ago when the Golden State decided that Woodrow Wilson should head the nation for another four years, political leaders in New York, Washington, Chicago, Marion and Dayton had their eyes turned westward.

At the same time diplomats in Washington and officials in Tokio took equal interest in California's election returns for this state's vote on the anti-Japanese measure on the ballot as fraught with important consequences. Passage of the measure may mean a complete revision of the international relations of the United States and the chief oriental power.

Politicians expected a heavy vote throughout the west. California's registration showed 1,374,184 men and women eligible to vote. They were divided into these classifications: Democrats, 299,861; Progressives 6342; Prohibitionists 20,050; Republicans 854,975; Socialists 19,828; declined to state, 171,763; nonpartisans 458; scattering 9; Union Labor 435; Progressive-Republican 10; anti-prohibition 3; communist labor 1; farmer labor 61; nationalist 1; social labor 14; independent 373. Predictions were that the total vote cast today would be somewhat below the 1,000,000 mark.

Within the state interest was about equal in the race for president and that between Shortridge, Republican, and Phelan, Democrat, for the U. S. senate, although in some sections— notably the Imperial Valley —interest in the Japanese question seemed threatening to overshadow everything else. In the senatorial contest while supporters of both contestants claimed victory with equal certainty, the "man on he street" marked it down as most anyone's race. Phelan, making his campaign largely under the slogan of "Keep California White," had seen Shortridge endorse almost the same anti-Japanese program as he was working for—although perhaps not as militantly—and in that manner make a bid for the rabidly anti-Japanese vote. Both candidates made strenuous campaigns.

Congressional races in some districts were spirited. In the first districts Clarence F. Lea, Democratic incumbent, won a rather sweeping victory at the primaries and was practically unopposed today. The same was true in the second district where John E. Raker, Democratic incumbent, had things his own way. In the third district, J. W. Struckenbruck, former state legislator, running as a Democratic was engaged in a spirited battle with Chas. F. Curry, Republican incumbent who long has been a state political leader. Julius Kahn, John I. Nolan, John A. Elston, and Henry E. Barbour, all unopposed, Republicans, were certain of their return to their present seats from the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh districts, respectively. Hugh S. Hersman, who gained considerable publicity recently through his experiences in Korea as a member of the Congressional party visiting the Orient, was spiritedly battling with Louis O'Neill, Republican, in the eighth district.

The ninth district was the scene of what was considered a rather important race between Charles Randall, prohibition member of congress and a national dry leader, and C. F. Van de Water, Republican, who was making a determined effort to unseat Randall. In the tenth district another interesting contest was in progress with Henry Z. Osborne, Republican incumbent carrying the endorsement of three parties, running against Upton Sinclair, the novelist, who was nominated by the Socialists. Phil D. Swing, Republican, and Hugh L. Dickson, Democrat, were fighting it out in the eleventh district for the seat formerly held by Congressman Wm. Kettner.

Fashion has almost reached the point when the girl who wears a modest skirt is suspected of being either bow-legged or knock-kneed.

BOBBED HAIR AND EMANCIPATION

Somewhere amid a multitude of repressed emotions and hidden longings is, one has been told—how truthfully, who can say?—the lurking wish in every woman's mind for bobbed hair. With her crowning glory clipped she thinks there is an added sense of freedom.

It is not mere vagrant caprice that led eighty-five Evanston girls to organize a bobbed hair club. One may, indeed, express surprise that the bobbed hair movement has not become general as a symbol of emancipation.

These eighty-five young women with bobbed hair will dance less, it is announced, and will undertake more gymnastical work. Skirts will be less tight and French heels will be abandoned. Other sanities will be introduced.

Whither is bobbed hair beckoning the lovely and now fully enfranchised sex? Nobody knows.

Thus is introduced another complexity into the unguessable riddle, woman.—Chicago Daily News.

RACIAL RESTLESSNESS

David T. Howard, of Atlanta, Georgia, who recently observed his seventy-first birthday anniversary, was born in slavery, but he is the owner of the fourth largest business in Atlanta and shares the respect of white men of the highest business standing.

On the occasion of his birthday, Howard took the opportunity of giving the members of his race a bit of advice that should be helpful to persons of all races who desire to succeed. He accomplished by hard work and strict attention to business what many others hope to get by some turn of good luck.

"I never fought for social equality; I never wanted it; no sane negro does," Mr. Howard said. "What the negro does want is better schools for his children, better justice in the courts, better accommodations on the railroad trains. Too many silk shirts and too much of an effort to have a good time are at the bottom of much of the racial unrest."

Howard is doubtless correct when he intimates that the tendency of so many negroes to imitate the whites in the spending of money has much to do with creating a feeling of jealousy, which may easily end in a disgraceful war between whites and negroes, examples of which are of recent history.

The negroes are entitled to everything guaranteed under the constitutional amendment which admitted them to citizenship, but they should not forget that "no sane negro" will demand so-called "social equality," for it becomes a source of friction between the two races that is quite certain to culminate in trouble.

The negro is probably not more offensive in any way than the members of the white race of his own degree of intelligence. The desire of many negroes to imitate white neighbors, or even exceed them in the effort to have a good time, will not bring any of them to the place of success reached by Howard.

ENCOURAGEMENT TO LAWLESSNESS

The number of daylight robberies committed in various parts of the country in recent months, led in most cases by persons who have records of criminality, calls attention to the doubtful benefits of the parole system and other measures which have been adopted for the purpose of giving convicted persons the "second chance."

The results of this leniency toward persons convicted of violations of the law, both in the courts and after they have been committed to prison, have only created the conviction that softness in dealing with criminals does not have the effect claimed by prison reformers, but in many cases men have been encouraged to repeat their crimes or engage in more daring violations of law.

The records of half a dozen men involved in the daylight robbing of a bank in Ohio a few days ago, in which one bandit was killed and several wounded, show that all except one had served terms in prison and that they had been released under the system of parole after they had impressed the prison officials by their good behavior.

Judges and juries are sometimes at fault in dealing too leniently with persons who are charged with crimes against individuals or property. Soft gloves are used when the hard fist would seem to be the only thing that would impress the accused with the fact that laws are enacted to be obeyed, not violated. It is doubtful if many persons convicted of crime appreciate the interest that is taken in their reformation.

Persons who are in any way responsible for violations of law escaping the full penalty of their misdeeds should not be permitted to evade their share of responsibility in the wave of crime that is sweeping over the nation. Until criminals can be impressed with the benefits of being obedient to law, they will be prepared to take chances of escaping with penalties out of proportion to their lawlessness.

THE SHAKERS

The old Shaker settlement at Union Village, in southern Ohio, has been abandoned. It was the last one of the Middle West, and was founded 115 years ago. Three old ladies, the last of a community that once numbered 600, have departed. Two have gone to their final reward. The third has joined the moribund Shaker colony in New Hampshire, the last one on earth.

The strict moral life, the clean health, the excellent craftsmanship of the middle western Shaker communities made the sect a byword for a dozen decades. Set upon by mobs and persecuted in the courts, accused of all sorts of laxities because of their curious dances, the Shakers battled well and long. Now their sect is about gone and their large land holdings the property of other churches.

Drab costumes and gentle ways made the Shakers conspicuous in the last century wherever their quiet communities were found. Yet occasionally there was something to enlived even their dull days.

For instance, there was Elder William Reynolds, who entered the ministry in 1875. "For a period of three years," says an old Shaker document, "every Sunday he would turn over and over like a cartwheel from the residence to the church. On leaving the church, he would be seized with the same impulse. At this unusual and unseemly practice he was intensely mortified. The power controlling him was so great that at times he would turn over fences, just as though they were naught."

And now the Shakers are gone from among us. We shall not look upon their like again.

SHORTAGE OF POSTAL WORKERS

The shortage of postal workers disclosed in the United States civil service commission's announcement of weekly examinations to fill vacancies is attributable to the low salaries paid. There is hope, however, that the sympathy which the public has for these hard-working employes of the government will lead to further improvement in their pay. As was pointed out at the time of the last increase granted them, their gain was not to be measured by the raise received, but by the general recognition that it was inadequate, which is assurance that additional consideration cannot be denied them.

Compelled to face every sort of weather, burdened at the holiday seasons and on special occasions like political campaigns, when material is sent through the mails in such large quantity, by heavy packs, the letter carriers have no easy task. The people realize that they are entitled to more generous salaries than are now paid.

The work has its compensating feature, however. To the man chained from morning until night to a desk, a job which permits one to be in the open as much as the postman it is not unattractive. If walking and fresh air are as beneficial as they are reputed to be, the letter carrier's work should be promotive of health.

BRITISH SOLDIERS RAID MAC SWINEY HOME

CORK, Ireland, Nov. 2.—British soldiers raided the home of Terence MacSwiney last night. They searched two sisters of former Lord Mayor MacSwiney and his two brothers. The raiding party searched the entire house for records.
